Acknowledging CEPF

Per your grant agreement, all publications, reports and press materials arising from a CEPF grant should acknowledge the Critical Ecosystem Partnership Fund.

In addition, all websites that are created with CEPF support, publish a donor list or include materials arising from a CEPF grant should include a link to the CEPF website, cepf.net.

In text credits and references, use the full name, rather than the acronym.

Acknowledging the CEPF Donor Partnership

CEPF is a partnership of eight donors, and it's important that we recognize them. So we ask all grantees to include specific text on or in products resulting from the CEPF grant, such as documents like press releases or research reports, website articles, videos, posters, etc. For T-shirts, stickers and other products where space is very limited, this text can be omitted.

For Grantees in Most Hotspots

Grantees in most hotspots should use the following paragraph to recognize CEPF's global donors—but please check the list that starts on page 7 of hotspots where the donor recognition text varies from this. If your hotspot is listed there, please use the text required for your hotspot.

“CEPF is a joint initiative of l'Agence Française de Développement, Conservation International, the European Union, Fondation Hans Wilsdorf, the Global Environment Facility, the Government of Canada, the Government of Japan and the World Bank. A fundamental goal is to ensure civil society is engaged in biodiversity conservation.”

CEPF LOGO

Use of the CEPF logo is encouraged on reports, maps, videos and other products that CEPF funding helped produce.

Logos of CEPF's individual global donor partners may not be used by grantees. (If, however, you are also receiving grants directly from one or more of our donor organizations, you should follow their logo use guidelines.)

Please send electronic versions of articles, reports, media interviews and other publications to Erika Ali.

Best Use Practices

Please use the transparent logo for light backgrounds and the white version of the logo for dark backgrounds.

It is also important to keep the logo's aspect ratio, meaning that it's not stretched either vertically or horizontally.

Joint CEPF-RIT Logo Files

Often, as space permits, it may be preferable to use a logo that includes both the CEPF logo and a logo or logos representing the regional implementation team in the hotspot where your project is located.

A complete list of joint logo files by hotspot can be found here.

Website

Your project has its own unique page on the CEPF website, which you can find through the project database. This page will include safeguard documents, final project reports and other reports and communications products.

We request that each grantee provide us with at least one high-resolution (minimum of 1 MB), horizontal photograph that illustrates their project. These photos, along with credit and caption information, can be sent to Erika Ali. She will send you a copy of the photo licensing terms that will need to be agreed to before we can publish the image(s).

If your organization publishes an article about your CEPF-funded project or receives news coverage, please let us know. We will add the link to CEPF in the News.

E-Newsletter

If you haven't already, we encourage you and your team to sign up for CEPF's free monthly e-newsletter. This is the best way to learn about open calls for proposals, new lessons learned, project management tips, our annual photo contest and other news. You can find an example of a previous e-newsletter here.

CEPF COMMUNICATION CHANNELS

Social Media

We encourage you to follow CEPF on Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn and YouTube. If your organization has social media accounts, please let Erika Ali know so that CEPF can “follow” you.

We encourage you to “tag” CEPF (and any other donors) in your social media posts so that we may “like” or share them. To do this, you would need to include our handle.

MEDIA OUTREACH PROTOCOL

CEPF encourages outreach to news media as one possible means of promotion.

We request that any press release or other materials being distributed to any newspapers, TV stations, websites, etc. involving achievements of CEPF-funded projects include the standard CEPF description per the grantee contracts.

For projects that have triggered any of the social or environmental safeguard policies, we request review of any press releases concerning the project at least two weeks in advance.

CEPF also greatly appreciates notification of any controversy arising from or related to projects it has funded that may rise to the level of news media coverage. Two-week advance review of news media-targeted materials is also requested for CEPF-funded projects that are connected to controversy.

Your help in ensuring that CEPF's mission and activities are presented in the media in an accurate fashion is greatly appreciated.
